THE SHARP FAMILY

of New Jersey

with

Mather and Mattison Connections

By

Benjamin Mather Powers
Kansas City, Missouri

Isaiah 51; 1, 2.

This material has been collected over a period of forty years from official records, family records and personal information. The authoritative genealogy of the Mather family by Horace E. Mather, is now out of print and since all descendants of Capt. John Sharp (3) are also descendants of the distinguished Richard Mather, the main Mather line back from its connection with the Sharp family is given, the material being taken from the Horace E. Mather genealogy. Because of the close relationship and association between the Sharp family and the Mattison family, a substantial portion of the Mattison genealogy is included in a separate section. For the greater part of the Mattison genealogy the author is indebted to Mr. William Hazlitt Smith, Esq., of Ithaca, New York.

Edward Powers was educated at Amenia Seminary and became a civil engineer, specializing on railroad construction. He early spent some time in Mississippi surveying plantations but just prior to the Civil War returned to the north. He had done engineering work on the Lebanon Springs Railroad and Sacketts Harbor & Saratoga Railroad, also in constructing second track of Hudson River Railroad. In 1856 he began engineering work for the Chicago, Iowa and Nebraska RR (now part of the Chicago & Northwestern RR). In 1862 he entered the quartermaster's department of the Union army and served there till the end of the war. He was employed by the Chicago, Rock Island & Pacific RR in 1866 and made the first survey for the great bridge over the Mississippi River between Davenport, Iowa, and Rock Island, Ill. He had charge of the construction of 100 miles of that railroad west from Des Moines, Iowa. In 1869 he became chief engineer of the Pekin, Lincoln & Decatur RR. In 1871 he had charge of the location and construction of the Chicago & Northwestern RR from Green Bay to Escanaba and later from Escanaba westward. He also located 195 miles of the same railroad in Dakota during which time his engineering party had to be fully armed in defense of Indians. He attained national prominence as the author of "War and the Weather" in which he advocated the artificial production of rainfall by the use of artillery.

THE MATHER CONNECTION

All descendants of John Sharp (3) and his wife, Sarah Mather, are entitled to claim descent from the famous Mather family of early Massachusetts. The direct Mather line to Sarah Mather is therefore set out, the material being taken from the Mather genealogy, "Lineage of Rev. Richard Mather," by Horace E. Mather, Hartford Ct., 1890, as follows:

First generation. John Mather of Lowton, Winwick Parish, Lancashire, England.

Second generation. Thomas Mather of Lowton, Winwick Parish, Lancashire, England, m. Margerite.

Third generation. Rev. Richard Mather, b. Lowton, Winwick Parish, Lancashire, England, 1596. The family was an ancient one, entitled to use a coat-of-arms but had been reduced "by reason of some unhappy mortgages." Nevertheless, his parents wished him to become a scholar and sent him to Winwick School. He was recommended by his master as teacher for a school to be started at Toxteth Park near Liverpool. Richard desired to go on to the University but his father insisted that he accept the offer and he therefore went to Toxteth in 1611 and became a teacher. He was converted in 1614 and not being satisfied with his private study, went to Oxford University and entered Brazen Nose College. In 1618 he was called back to Toxteth Park to be minister. He was ordained by the Bishop of Chester in the established church.

In August, 1633, he was silenced by the Prelates for non-conformity but was restored to his church through the intercession of some gentlemen of Lancashire. He was again "silenced" in 1634 and retired to private life after having admitted to the official visitor that he had never worn the surplis.

On September 29, 1624, he had married Katherine, daughter of Edmond Holt, Esq., of Bury in Lancashire. Upon his being silenced in the ministry for non-conformity, he brought his family to New England, arriving in Boston August 17, 1635. He was promptly installed as minister at Dorchester, Mass., where he served during his life.

He was the leading minister of New England. In 1643 he drafted the first statement of faith or creed of the Congregational Church. In 1640, in collaboration with John Elliot and Thomas Weld, he became the author of the "Bay Psalm Book," the first book published in America. At least eleven other publications came from his pen. He died April 22, 1669, and his tomb may be seen at Copp's Hill Cemetery in Boston.

Fourth generation: Timothy Mather, b. 1628, Liverpool, England. d. Dorchester, Mass., Jan. 14, 1684. m. Catherine, daughter of Maj. General Humphrey Atherton, a distinguished man of the colony. (The author has visited the tomb of General Atherton in Dorchester, on the flat top of which was still legible a carved inscription describing the number of companies of horse and foot soldiery who participated in his funeral.) Timothy was the only son of Rev. Richard Mather who did not become a minister. His brother, Increase, was the third President of Harvard College. The famous Cotton Mather, who has been unjustly held responsible for the Salem witchcraft trials, was a son of Increase and therefore a nephew of Timothy.

Fifth generation. Rev. Samuel Mather, b. Dorchester, Mass., July 5, 1650. d. Windsor, Ct., March 18, 1727. m. Hannah, daughter of Governor Robert Treat of Connecticut, a famous leader against the Indians. She died March 3, 1707-8. Rev. Samuel graduated from Harvard College in 1671. He then preached in Deerfield, Mass., until the town was destroyed by Indians in the historic "Deerfield massacre" in 1675. He preached also in Hatfield, Milford and Branford, Ct., and then in 1682 settled as minister at Windsor, Ct., where he remained till his death. He was one of the ten members of the clergy selected to be the founders of Yale College in 1700.

Sixth generation. Rev. Nathaniel Mather, b. Windsor, Ct., May 30, 1695. d. Lower Aquebogue, Long Island, N. Y., May 20, 1748. Graduated from Yale College in 1715. Minister of Lower Aquebogue. m. Mrs. Ruth Terry Jan. 21, 1724. She died May 9, 1743.

Sarah Mather, who married Capt. John Sharp, was descended from two Mather lines, her father, Silas Mather, having married his cousin, Mary Mather. These two lines branch off from the two sons of Rev. Nathaniel Mather of the sixth generation and each line will be given.

Line of Silas Mather

Seventh generation. Ebenezer Mather, b. 1729, Lower Aquebogue, L. I. m. Margaret Downs April 16, 1752. d. Minisink, Orange County, N. Y.
Eighth generation. John Mather, b. Minisink, N. Y. m. Elsie Brown.
Ninth generation, Silas D. Mather.

Line of Mary Mather

Seventh generation. Increase Mather, b. 1725, Aquebogue, L. I. m. Anna Brown. d. Dec. 20, 1794, Minisink, N. Y.
Eighth generation. Capt. Cotton Mather, b. July 4, 1759, Orange County, N. Y. m. Sarah Doty. d. April 22, 1822.
Ninth generation, Mary Mather.
Tenth generation. Sarah Mather (Sally), daughter of Silas D. Mather and Mary Mather, b. Oct. 12, 1809, Orange County, N. Y. m. Capt. John Sharp, Nov. 27, 1827. d. July 13, 1889, Delavan, Wis.

Sons or Daughters of the Revolution

All Sharp descendants mentioned in this book are eligible for membership in the societies of the Sons of the Revolution and Daughters of the American Revolution by right of John Mattison (sometimes spelled Matson) and John Ketcham, father of the Sarah Ketcham who married said John Mattison. John Mattison's daughter Esther married Jacob Sharp (1).

The following official references may be used in establishing right to membership in these societies:

"Official Register of the Officers and Men of New Jersey in the Revolutionary War."—Compiled under order of William S. Stryker, Adjutant General (1872).

In this reference book, under the heading "Official Roster Continental Troops Jersey Line," appears a list of officers first and then privates. Under "Privates" appears page 226 John Ketcham, Captain Anderson's Company, Third Regiment: First Regiment. Discharged February 1, 1783, disability.

In the same book, under the heading "Official Roster of State Troops and Militia," appears a list of officers first and then privates. Under "Privates" appears page 653 John Ketcham, First Regiment, Salem, also state troops, also Continental army.

The author has in his possession a newspaper clipping of 1890 from the Delavan (Wisconsin) Enterprise, then being published by the author's uncle, Hiram T. Sharp (30). The article is as follows:

Obituary.

"Mrs. Catherine Thompson, of Jacksonville, who received severe injuries last week Thursday from a fall, passed peacefully away last Sunday at 8:30 p.m.

Seldom has death removed from our circle one whose memory will linger in the minds of all who knew her as the one whom we are now left to mourn. She knew no enemies.

The loveable disposition and welcome greeting, to all through life, were characteristic of her inward purity and the spotless example left for us to follow. She lived past the allotted time, by being near 88 years old. Seven children whose thoughts were ever for the comfort and welfare of their mother, with hosts of friends, followed her to her last resting place.

She has gone. We will see her no more, but will think of her crossing the river resting on the arm of Him who is calming the waves that bear her spirit to the Glory land.

The funeral was held on Wednesday on this week at 11 o'clock a.m. at the residence of her daughter, Mrs. J. M. Stout, Rev. H. T. Giles officiating."

The above tender tribute in memory of Mrs. Catherine Thompson appears in the Weekly Ithacan, of Tompkins Co., N. Y., Feb. 7, 1890.

Mrs. Thompson's father, John Mattison, was an early pioneer of Jacksonville having removed with his family from the state of N. J. in the year 1812. The writer of the following is a grand nephew of Mrs. Thompsons, and may be excused for adding a brief reminiscence of family history.

When a small boy over fifty years ago, he visited Mrs. Thompson with his parents, at her home in Jacksonville and there saw Mrs. Thompson's mother, Mrs. Sarah Mattison, who was then an aged lady. Calling me to her side she told me she was my great grandmother and related to me some incidents in her early life, occurring during the war of the Revolution. She wanted me to remember that she was in sight and sound of the "Battle of Monmouth," her father and two brothers were in the battle under Washington.

She was then but sixteen years of age and said she wished she were a man that she might shoulder a musket and help the cause of the Colonies. All true lovers of our country will ever cherish and venerate the memory of their ancestors, who took part in that heroic struggle for American Independence.

E. Mattison Sharp."

The above named E. Mattison Sharp was another uncle of the author, being No. 28 in the Sharp genealogy. The Sarah Mattison to whom he refers in the above article was Sarah Ketcham who married John Mattison (38). Sarah Ketcham Mattison's father to whom she referred as being in the Battle of Monmouth, was the John Ketcham mentioned in the Official Roster above cited.

Another official reference work showing the connection between John Ketcham and John Mattison is the monumental "Archives of New Jersey." In Volume XXXVI, page 128, reference is made to the will of John Ketcham. "May 2, 1786, John Ketcham will, Hopewell, Hunterdon County. Executors, son Levi, son-in-law John Mattison."

Aaron (1). There is a tradition in the Jacksonville, N. J., branch of the family that he was one of two brothers named Delamont, Huguenots, who fled from France in the 17th century at the time of the religious persecutions, and that Aaron was adopted by a Scotch family named Mattison. At any rate, he was in Freehold by 1709 and is mentioned in History of Old Monmouth as owning a plantation in that year. He helped build the Old Tennant Church near Freehold in 1730-1731 (History of Old Tennant Church, Frank R. Symmes). Is believed to be the Auri Mattison therein mentioned, though he is referred to as "Aaron" in connection with his service in carrying on the building work. His will is recorded at Trenton, N. J., dated April 2, 1762, proved May 3, 1762. The will mentions his children.
